

Dovetail Joint Construction Company, Inc.
Full Service Contractor Since 1997
Architecture, Engineering, Design, & Construction Services
(303) 680-6973 info@dovetailjointconstruction.com

Construction Phase

Building Your Dream

Once the architect finishes the design it is time to pull permits and build your dream. Proper planning and constant communication are the keys to success. Dovetail Joint Construction believes our reputation of excellence must be protected at all costs. The only way to do this is to delight the customer and deliver a project that exceeds their expectations.

Before we start the work we will sit down with you and have a project kickoff meeting. At this meeting we will go over the construction estimate with you in detail as well as present you with a construction schedule so you can make plans to minimize the effect of the project on your day to day life. We will also provide you a list of items you need to select, the budget for those items (with the contractor discount), and the schedule of when those items need to be selected to meet the construction schedule.

Once we begin construction we will communicate with you about the status of the project however often you like, but we recommend status meetings weekly at a minimum. If something comes up of major importance we will contact you immediately. We will never proceed with work that is different than the original estimate before we have approval from you in writing.

At Dovetail Joint Construction quality is paramount. We will treat you and your home with respect and we will never do anything to your home that we would not do to our own. We warranty all of our work and we will not hesitate to support you after your project is completed.

We look forward to working with you.

Dan Duffy